Guzoo loses its licence

Embattled rural zoo given week to shut doors to public ◐ Animals to be removed and dispersed by two government departments

After 21 years in operation, Three Hills' Guzoo has lost its zoo licence following a third-party review initiated by the Alberta government.

The zoo, 127 kilometres from Calgary — and target of a viral social-media campaign demanding its closure — has a week to "decommission" and give up its exotic animals.

This follows a Canadian Association of Zoos and Aquariums probe of the facility for 108 items under Alberta Zoo Standards, which cited "deficiencies in all categories."

"We have not taken this step lightly," said Mel Knight, Alberta's minister of Sustainable Resource Development. "Our No. 1 concern is the safety of the general public, and after that the well-being of the animals."

Knight said he was aware of previous allegations of animal mistreatment and zoo-standards violations at Guzoo, but he was not immediately responsible before now.

"I take the appropriate actions when I am responsible.... I gave a 60-day extension and initiated a third-party review. This is the responsible outcome."

Lynn Gustafson, Guzoo's owner, yesterday called it a move by "communist Alberta."

"I am disappointed in our government," said Gustafson. "This is the wonder of their whole setup: I have to get rid of every animal, but then I can start over again."

Gustafson would not say what his plans are but told Metro on Monday that he would not close.

Knight said if the owner keeps his business running, it won't be as a zoo.

"The owner can not operate a zoo, period, without a permit."

Guzoo history

- Dr. Debi Zimmermann, who called Guzoo conditions in March "disgusting" after a visit there on behalf of Zoocheck, said the government decision was good overall, but she is concerned about which animals may be excluded from the decommission.
- The SRD ministry will work with the SPCA and zoo operators to decide the fate and destination of Guzoo animals, which include bears, tigers, lions, emus and a macaque, among others.
- Liberal MLA and SRD critic Laurie Blakeman said she has asked for Guzoo's closure since 2003 and is calling for the government to ensure all zoos adhere to zoo standards.

More city off-leash dog parks coming?

The City of Calgary parks department is looking for feedback from residents this month on possibly adding three new off-leash dog parks. The proposed areas include new fenced-off sites in Martindale, West Hillhurst and Meadowlark Park, as well as fencing off an existing area in Falconridge. "In the big picture, there's 122,000 dogs in Calgary and off-leash areas are a pretty important part of the recreation activities of many of our citizens," said Dennis Urquhart, spokesperson for the parks department. Police try to locate man who fell in river

Police continue to search for a man who they initially thought had drowned but now believe pulled himself from the river.

After more than 10 hours of searching the Elbow and Bow rivers for a body, the Calgary Fire Department has called off their recovery efforts because police say the man has been identified as being alive.

Spokesperson for the Calgary Police Service Mike Nunn said witnesses identified the man and police are now looking to physically locate him.

Wage hike does little to quell poverty: Advocate

▶ Alberta's minimum hourly pay rate for employees to increase from $8.80 to $9.40 ▶ Those serving liquor will see smaller increase to $9.05

JEREMY NOLAIS
@METRONEWS.CA

Hiking Alberta's minimum wage does little to solve income issues plaguing 150,000 Calgarians, says a local anti-poverty advocate.

Yesterday's announcement from the province represents a near seven percent increase for the general workforce and a roughly three per cent hike for employees that serve liquor.

"Alberta needs to stay competitive with other provinces in Canada for the jobs that typically pay minimum wage," explained Employment Minister Thomas Lukaszuk.

But Dan Meades, director of Vibrant Communities Calgary, called the hike "a very tiny step in a long journey.

"The question I would ask today is how many people have been lifted out of poverty as a result of the minimum wage increase? And the answer is zero," he added.

Ben Brunnen, chief economist with the Calgary Chamber of Commerce, viewed the hike favourably.

"It actually does give the lowest-earning income Albertans a hand up ... without necessarily adversely impacting business because it's still a relatively competitive minimum wage when compared with other provinces," he said.

The minimum wage hike will take effect Sept. 1 — roughly two and a half years after the last increase in April 2009.

WITH FILES FROM HEATHER MCINTYRE

Comparisons

- The low-income cutoff in Alberta is presently set at $12.25 an hour.
- While Alberta's minimum wage remains among the lowest in Canada, relatively low taxation will see us rank third in the country for take-home income once the new increase comes into effect.
- Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia have also adopted a two-tiered system as a way to offset tips earned by service industry workers.

▶ Staff Sgt. Doug Andrus says a recent re-enactment of the events leading to Mark Mariani's death played a role in yesterday's arrest of two suspects. But police believe a third person was involved and are asking anyone with information to come forward.

Murder suspects linked to white pride

Two men believed to have links to a white-supremacist group face second-degree murder charges in an attack last October.

Tyler William Sturrup, 26, and Robert David Reitmeier, 24, were arrested on Tuesday. Reports suggest the two are leaders of WEB, which stands for Western European Bloodline.

Mark Mariani, 47, was found dead in an alley across from North Hill shopping centre. Staff Sgt. Doug Andrus of the Calgary police said he was in the wrong place at the wrong time.

"We are well aware of information that suggests or alleges these charged individuals are affiliated with a white-supremacist group. However, based on the evidence we have, we are not alleging the affiliation to any group played a role in this incident," he said.

Mariani's sister, Katherine Weltzin, said the family welcomed news of the arrests but continues to grieve the loss of a man they described as kind and generous.

"We were hoping one day he would walk through the door, that this was all a bad dream," she said. "We're all still numb, and even though it brings some relief ... you still don't want to believe it's true, that he's never coming home."

City lauded for water project

The City of Calgary received the 2011 Environment Award yesterday at a conference of the Canadian Association of Municipal Administrations in Halifax.

The Fire Training Reuse Project reduces the city's environmental footprint because it helps save up to 150 million litres of water a year. Water used during training is captured, treated and reused.

The Fire Training Reuse Project began in July 2010. The Calgary Fire Department, the City of Calgary Parks and ATCO Gas joined forces to get the project started.

'Nucks swag selling well in Calgary

Canada's last chance for the cup won Game 1 of the final last night

KATIE TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

Although not all Calgarians are behind their NHL rivals to the west, it appears many in the city are sporting Canucks colours.

"We're definitely selling more Canucks jerseys," said Shawn Smith, manager of Pro Hockey Life at CrossIron Mills, adding the Canucks jerseys are selling at a rate of three to one compared to Boston Bruins jerseys.

"Our first year we didn't have enough Canucks stuff. We underestimated the number of Canucks fans in the city."

Longtime Canucks fan Jessica Monsun was buying T-shirts for her daughters to wear during the first game of the series.

"My husband is completely going all out — big party tonight celebrating."

It does if you spend your summer there.

A clean, safe park — families count on it. And CUPE staff work hard to make sure Calgary parks are their best all summer long.

So why would City Council privatize park maintenance? Especially strange since they've experimented with it before, and it failed. Private contractors weren't able to do all the work — so it was just left undone. The results: poorly maintained parks and no taxpayer savings. And city workers had to redo the work.

It just doesn't make sense to repeat the same mistake. City staff do a better job than private contractors — and when nobody has to make a profit, it costs taxpayers less.

Our kids deserve healthy, safe, green and clean parks this summer — not parks going to weed.

For well-maintained parks and green spaces at a lower cost —

keep it public.

Matt Dramowicz – Canucks fan. Why are you cheering for the Canucks?

I used to live there, I moved from there a couple of years ago. I'll always be a fan, no matter where they send me. It's great to see the Canucks back in there.

Brianne Fellinger – Canucks fan from Saskatchewan. Why are you cheering for the Canucks?

I have been a fan for three years now. I'm from Saskatchewan, and we don't have a team there, so we have a broad area to choose a team from. The Flames are kind of mediocre.

Sameer Ramtulla — Canucks hater. Why are you not cheering for the Canucks?

Because I'm a Flames fan. If you're a Flames fan, you can't cheer for the Canucks. Bruins all the way!

Samara Felesky Hunt – Flames fan. Why are you cheering for the Canucks?

Because a Canadian team hasn't been in the finals for a long time.

HOME ICE ADVANTAGE

Heading into their first cup final in 17 years, Canucks fans have little to gripe about.

But ahead of Game 1 yesterday, some Vancouver fans were frustrated with the start time: 5 p.m. local, when many are working or fighting rush-hour traffic. Should fans, who have supported a team for 40 years, take a backseat to the massive audience in the East?

The debate was on. Why, one B.C.-raised reporter wondered, should I have to skip out of work early so out-of-town fans can see my team play? Why, one Ontario-born reporter asked, should eastern fans stay up past midnight see the game?

▶ HMCS Charlottetown, on patrol in the background, is framed by a Belgian ship in May. The Charlottetown is the Canadian naval contribution to the NATO mission in Libya.

HMCS Charlottetown has spent the spring clearing anti-ship mines and taking fire off the coast of Libya.

The ship sailed from Halifax on March 2 as Canada's contribution to the NATO mission. Operations have focused on the town of Misrata, recently surrounded by enemy forces.

In April, a pro-Gadhafi force attacked the harbour with small boats and laid anti-ship mines. The Charlottetown was called in to help on May 5. "Our job was to protect the mine-clearance vessels from attacks from the shore," said Cmdr. Craig Skjerpen in an interview yesterday.

On May 12, the ship was fired upon at night. The Charlottetown and other NATO vessels were chasing several small attack boats away when large-calibre machine-gun ammunition was fired at them. The Charlottetown returned fire "very professionally and quickly" Skjerpen said. "Since then, the crew's morale has remained very high and they really understand they're having a positive effect on what's happening on the ground and on the sea."

Mission possible

- NATO and its partners decided yesterday in Brussels to extend their mission for another 90 days. "This decision sends a clear message to the Gadhafi regime: We are determined to continue our operation to protect the people of Libya," said NATO Secretary-General Anders Fogh Rasmussen.
- When the HMCS Charlottetown left Halifax in March, no return date was given and Cmdr. Craig Skjerpen said that hasn't changed. "Things change, but right now it's up to six months," he said.

$25K bail in new hotel sex case

- Egyptian businessman allegedly assaulted maid
- Second episode at a New York hotel in two weeks

A businessman and former chairman of a major Egyptian bank charged with sexually abusing a housekeeper at a luxury Manhattan hotel is being held on $25,000 bail.

Mahmoud Abdel Salam Omar has been ordered to hand over his passport because he is considered a flight risk.

Authorities say the businessman, who is in his 70s, attacked the maid at The Pierre hotel, near Central Park and Fifth Avenue.

The hotel said it suspended the housekeeping supervisor for not immediately reporting the alleged assault. Police were called the next morning.

▶ Mahmoud Abdel Salam Omar

Omar was arraigned on two counts of sexual abuse and forcible touching.

His lawyer, Liz Beal, said her client "adamantly denies the charges." Beal said Omar expected to post bail as quickly as possible.

The prosecution says Omar grabbed the maid in a bear hug and kissed her on the lips and neck and grabbed her breasts and buttocks.

Omar's lawyer said he has been married for 48 years and has two adult children and has grandchildren.

McGuinty won't apologize

- Ontario Liberals not calling G20 public inquiry
- Toronto Police Services Board review begins

Premier Dalton McGuinty says public hearings into police actions during the G20 in Toronto will help government understand what to do going forward.

But McGuinty won't apologize for the secret law the Liberal government passed granting police powers to detain and arrest people during the international summit.

The premier also says he will not call a public inquiry into police actions during the G20.

McGuinty says he's acknowledged the government didn't manage the secret G20 law as well as it should have.

More than 1,100 people were arrested and detained during the G20 weekend.

McGuinty has said it's up to Prime Minister Stephen Harper to call any public inquiry into arrests during the G20 weekend.

Three days of hearings into the G20 started last night at Toronto's Metro Hall, billed as a chance for the public to offer insight into the role civilian oversight should play in policing major events.

Heroin clinics safe: Study

Sites allow addicts to inject drugs cleanly and with nurse's supervision

Heroin-related debris, like discarded needles, dropped 46 per cent in a Montreal neighbourhood after an injection clinic opened there in 2005, according to a recent study.

Researchers are urging the Conservative government to pay attention to these findings and reconsider its opposition to such facilities.

The study published yesterday in the Canadian Journal of Public Health says the establishment of an experimental prescription medical heroin clinic did not have a negative effect on the neighbourhood. It says fear that more drug addicts would be drawn to an area serviced by a clinic were unfounded.

"We certainly show that it is not the case. We shouldn't say no to these types of clinics on the basis of the fact that we will attract people disturbing the neighbourhood," said Serge Brochu, a Universite de Montreal criminologist.

The study follows another one by Brochu and other researchers, published in 2009, which looked at crime patterns around clinics in Montreal and Vancouver before and after they opened.

PM's stance

- Analysis is being released as the Supreme Court of Canada considers closing a Vancouver safe-injection clinic.
- Prime Minister Stephen Harper said the national drug strategy is based on prevention and treatment. Conservatives say safe injection sites fosters addiction.

Consumer debt rising: Study

- Canada's top central banker warned consumers to rein in borrowing
- Consumer spending, meanwhile, slowed down in first quarter of 2011

Canadians' average non-mortgage debt grew 4.5 per cent to $25,597 in the first quarter compared to a year earlier, signalling that consumers aren't necessarily clamping down on borrowing even as they rein in spending.

Total debt per consumer, including credit cards, car loans and lines of credit but excluding mortgages, was up from $24,497 in the same quarter of 2010, according to a quarterly analysis by TransUnion.

Total consumer debt rose in all provinces but increased the most in Quebec and Newfoundland and Labrador, with debt rising by 7.8 per cent in both provinces, while British Columbians had the highest average consumer debt at $36,649.

"Our first quarter data shows a continued increase in the total debt per consumer, although the trend still remains modest compared to the double-digit, pre-recession levels," said Thomas Higgins, TransUnion's vice president of analytics and decisioning.

Don't 'suit up,' salarymen told

The Japanese government wants the country's suit-loving salarymen to be bold this summer. Ditch the stuffy jacket and tie. And for the good of a country facing a power crunch, go light and casual.

Japan's "Super Cool Biz" campaign kicked off yesterday with a government-sponsored fashion show in Tokyo featuring outfits appropriate for the office yet cool enough to endure the sweltering heat.

This summer may be especially brutal. The loss of the Fukushima Dai-ichi nuclear power plant, crippled by the March 11 tsunami, means electricity could be in short supply around Tokyo during hot days.

To prevent blackouts, the government is asking companies to cut electricity usage by 15 per cent, and set room temperatures to 28 C.

Toyota Prius' faulty steering leads to recall

Toyota Canada says it's recalling about 940 first-generation Prius hybrid cars across the country for faulty steering caused by a nut that may come loose.

The automaker says the recall affects Prius models made from 2001 through 2003. The move is part of a global recall of 106,000 Prius hybrids.

The single minor accident suspected of being related to the problem was reported in the United States, according to Toyota Motor Corp.

The latest recall from Toyota, which has taken a hit to its reputation from massive recalls worldwide, affects 48,000 Prius vehicles in Japan, starting with the first Prius models that went on sale in 1997, and those manufactured through 2003.

It also affects 58,000 vehicles sold abroad, including 52,000 Prius cars sold from 2001 through 2003 in the U.S., some 1,200 in Great Britain, and 800 in Germany, company spokesman Paul Nolasco said.

Toyota says loose nuts in the electric-power steering can cause the vehicle, if operated over a long time, to steer with too much force.

The problem can be fixed by putting in better nuts and will take about four hours, it said.

Twenty-one complaints were received that may be caused by the problem, but there were no accidents, the automaker said.

Brace yourself: It's House of Commons time! The backbenches are polished, the little woman in the sign language bubble is limber, and CPAC has unveiled kickin' new camera angles that promise to make the 41st session of Parliament the best yet!

It's clear from my fan mail that readers are caught up in the high drama of the House of Commons, which reopens today. It's clear because no one is sending me fan mail.

And no wonder! If I know my politics, this will be the most exciting parliamentary session since Joe Clark defended himself against a man with a long knife, who was stopped from entering the bedrooms of the nation by a pirouetting Pierre Trudeau. The Avro Arrow was also involved somehow.

"If I know my politics, this will be the most exciting parliamentary session since Joe Clark defended himself against a man with a long knife ..."

The central issue this month will be the transition to Conservative majority from minority, a story that we in the media predicted with an incredibly consistent level of inaccuracy.

Nobody saw this Parliament coming. But is our face red? No. Because we in the media have shorter attention spans than goldfish. Who has time to look back on our mistakes when we're so busy randomly guessing the future?

With that in mind, here's what to expect from the summer session:

THE BUDGET: It's basically the same as the one tabled before the election call, except for something labelled Secret Explosive Majority Win Conspiracy Item, which well-placed sources (they're near a telephone) say involves some sort of countdown clock and a lot of stifled giggles from Tony Clement.

HIDDEN AGENDA: Prime Minister Stephen Harper has buried an agenda he purchased deep in the budget, because he bought a leather-bound $79 one when he could have gone with the normal $18.95 version and he is embarrassed about it.

ORANGE CRUSH: Soft drink being demanded in the House of Commons by the incredibly young NDP MPs, many of whom weren't even born when Glee started.

SMALLER BLOC: With only four seats, the Bloc Québécois will stop demanding separation. Instead, they just want open, honest communication, some alone time and maybe a date night on Mondays. And would it kill Canada to say "I love you" every once in a while?

LICKING THEIR SELF-INFLICTED WOUNDS: The Liberals plan to put their internal struggles behind them and finally come together as a mere seven separate factions willing to stab their fellow members for the good of the party.

THE MEDIA: We're going to get something right this year. I guarantee it.

Worth mentioning

OTTAWA. Canadian governments head off in all directions when it comes to tackling climate change, a new tally of provincial and federal environment policies shows.

The end result is a disorganized, inefficient approach to greenhouse-gas reduction that won't allow Canada to meet its goals, say researchers at the Conference Board of Canada.

Len Coad, director of energy and environment at the Conference Board, said his team went through each federal and provincial jurisdiction and tried to add up all the policies to measure how close Canada will come to meeting its emission-reduction targets.

Coad said that while most governments have climate-action plans that focus on the biggest emitters in their purview, they don't include concrete goals or detailed analysis that will drive results.

Plus, he says governments don't talk to each other — or to the public for that matter — hampering their ability to work together to reduce emissions.

A new website lets Britons rank their lawmakers' sex appeal.

The site, www.sexymp.co.uk, asks visitors to choose between two pictured legislators, with the votes compiled into a fast-changing overall ranking.

Conservative legislator Penny Mordaunt led the female politicians yesterday, while fellow Tory Jake Berry was ranked the sexiest man.

The site's creator, reality TV star Francis Boulle, defended it as a "fun and memorable" way for people to get to know their politicians.

Most lawmakers seemed to take it in good humour.

Jim Shannon, briefly ranked least sexy among 648 lawmakers, told the BBC he hadn't been elected for his looks, but because voters "know I am a worker and will get the job done."

Murder is on the menu. You'll die laughing at this unconventional show

"We've stabbed people with a wide variety of interesting implements such as a Barbie Doll and drapery rod," says artistic director Alison Whitley of Pegasus Performances Comic Murder Mystery Dinner Theatre.

She definitely has my attention as she illustrates her way through a behind-the-scenes tour of what goes into a murder mystery performance at the Deane House, a beautiful Edwardian home built in 1906. Cooking up Murder is what's on the menu for the Friday, June 10, and June 24 performances.

If you think this is a sit back and watch kind of show, think again. It's up to the audience to remove the victim's body, figure out who the murderer is, and then put them on trial by the closing act. The whole house ends up being interactively explored in an effort to solve this unconventional who-done-it.

"This isn't a traditional theatre space," says Whitely. "We use a parlour, dining room, and glassed-in verandah as the restaurant and stage for acts one and two."

The grizzly murder is paired with delightful appetizers and drinks before a four-course meal. Once the main course is complete, you'll head up to Captain Deane's room for the rest of the show.

By this point, I'm getting a little creeped out and having flash backs of the House on Haunted Hill. It's bad enough the Deane House is rumoured to be haunted, but I have to admit part of me is curious to do some ghost hunting.

If you are up for a little paranormal investigation, roam around the house and beautiful grounds prior to the 7 p.m. call time. But, once the show gets started, make sure you keep your eyes peeled because you never know who's going to end up on the chopping block. For tickets or more information, visit greatfun.ca or call 403.269.7747.

Deane House

- The Deane House is named after former resident Captain Deane of the Northwest Mounted Police.
- It's the attic that's rumoured to be haunted in this historic house.
- Tickets are $75 including meal and the Halloween shows are already sold out.

A photo is worth 1,000 words

Calgary photographers got more than they bargained for when they set out to make a difference in the community a few years ago.

"We were trying to come up with a new way to get people involved in giving, volunteering, and participating in their community," shares organizer Rhiannon MacDonnell.

She's talking about Calgary's annual BeCause Urban Exposure Project, which documents inspiring sets of "photography stories" about community.

As the event unfolded, it turned out to be much more complex than they anticipated.

"The first year I'm not sure the project team got any sleep the night before as we tackled obstacles we didn't know to expect," says MacDonnell.

"I remember saying 'If we just get these things on the wall and nobody comes, I don't care, I'll be happy!'"

Well, the photos made it up on the gallery walls in time and that first event was a huge success. Since then, they have figured out how to make the project and exhibit even better.

Tonight showcases the fruits of their labour from 6 to 8:30 pm at the Gerry Thomas Gallery (602 11 Ave. SW). Admission is absolutely free but donations are welcome.

▶ Michael Fassbender stars as Magneto in X-Men: First Class.

Indie movie star Michael Fassbender gets his first big break, in X-Men: First Class. Metro sat down for a revealing one-on-one.

If you could have one super power, what would it be?
Being honest, I reckon flying would have to be up there just because it's one thing I can't do — damn it — much to my dismay, because when I was younger I did believe I was Superman. I've just come to terms with this in the last year that I'm not. … So I would like to be able to fly and I would like to have a tail as well.

Oh, for what purpose?
I think it's kind of kinky. Kidding. I like the idea of being able to balance on things and they also look quite nice, don't they? They're aesthetically pleasing. I could be drinking a milkshake independently now with my hands free.

Did you talk to Ian McKellen about playing Magneto?
The thing is, I was thinking to myself, "Oh s—, the fans are not going to be happy because (McKellen), I think, goes down as one of the number one villains in all superhero films. It was a bit stupid of me to go against the grain in that respect. But then I thought, I'd bring something fresh. I want to make bold choices. Hopefully there would be something new and still have the quality that people recognize of Magneto for the fans.

How many X-Men sequels are you contracted for?
Oh they own me, dude. They've got me for two options so they definitely have the option to use me and to be honest with you, I'd be very excited to continue the journey with it. James (McAvoy) and I have been talking about it over the last few days, about where we could go with the next one. We definitely want to be involved from the ground floor up on that. I think that's going to be very important if there is a sequel.

Could you see yourself in the might-be sequels, continuing to walk the line between good guy and bad guy?
As much as I can, for sure. It's far more interesting and it happens like that in the comic books. There's a respect that continues between these two characters that I think is very interesting.

Metro had asked you before about working with green screens, but a lot of your performance demands a lot of intense cringing, because you move things with your mind…
Constipation, yes. I know, I was watching it last night thinking, "God, really. Just get on with it, man. Eat some prunes." It's like, how do you go about doing stuff like that?… But yeah, there were a few people laughing in the theater last night. I was like, "shut up, all right? Give me a break, okay? You try f—king lifting a submarine, smart ass."

Family key to Almost Heroes

For years, brothers Jason and Ryan Belleville were the jokesters brought onto a TV show to help amp up the funny.

Older brother Jason wrote jokes for the Gemini Awards, Little Mosque On the Prairie, the NHL awards, Testees and Bob and Doug after cutting his teeth in improv.

Baby-faced Ryan made his name as a hot stand-up on Toronto's comedy circuit while booking commercials, appearing in the shortlived Fox series Life on a Stick, and recently becoming a regular on She's the Mayor.

Now, the duo is coming together to make a name for themselves with their own sitcom Almost Heroes, about two brothers who run a floundering comic book store.

The younger Belleville says the Showcase series is a dream come true for the Calgary transplants, who have also developed projects for Comedy Central and the Comedy Network over the years.

"Me and Jay have been hired to write stuff that wasn't in our own voice many times," notes the 32-year-old, who says he started performing at age 15.

"I've been hired as an actor on parts and it's fun, but it's not the same. You're brought in to make something else funnier and it's just different when it's your own baby."

While Ryan Belleville is front and centre in Almost Heroes as the dimwitted Peter, Jason Belleville stays behind the scenes as co-creator, co-producer and co-writer.

He leaves the role of sophisticated older brother Terry to former Battlestar Galactica and Knight Rider regular Paul Campbell, explaining that he has "a limited range" when it comes to acting.

"I'm a lot like a Clooney," Belleville quips.

In Almost Heroes, the fictional brothers are forced to put their differences aside when their father dies and leaves the family business — a failing comic book store in a strip mall — in their incapable hands.

The series kicks off tonight with an unconventional memorial at the comic shop attended by a hodge podge of costume-wearing geeks.

Like most of Ke$ha's songs — including chartbusters Tik Tok and We R Who We R — her latest, Crazy Beautiful Life, from her album, Cannibal, is a fine example of art imitating her ... crazy beautiful life.

At one point she sings, "got here by runnin' my mouth," which is quite true in this interview.

What at present is your favourite song to sing?
Animal is my favourite song to sing live. It's also probably my favourite song I've ever written.

How about your favourite line?
I love to sing the line in We R Who We R: "We're running this town just like a club," because my fans and I are a cult of rowdy misfits and we're taking over! And at my shows, when we're all there together, I can really feel our collective energy and that line feels like a mantra for us.

You mention the Rolling Stones in more than one song. Is a Mick Jagger collaboration imminent for you?
Do you have his number?

Unfortunately I don't. Did you really jump the fence to get into see the Stones when you were broke, like you sing in The Harold Song?

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Ke$ha will take you to the candy shop

I really did jump the fence to see the Stones when I was too broke to pay, but that wasn't anything out of the ordinary. I didn't have enough money to pay for shows until recently, so pretty much all the shows I have ever been to I have had to sneak into. Over the years I've had to get creative to figure out how to get past security unnoticed, but I have also gotten to see tons of shows and made out with a ton of roadies.

What does it feel like to be going back to cities you've been to already on this tour, but at much bigger venues?
Every show I play, whether it's to two people or 2,000 people, I go balls out.

But it's fun to get to go back because I see that our cult is growing.

Is there anything different you're doing for the bigger venues?
Naturally, it's all going to have to be bigger. Bigger band members — minimum seven-feet tall and 250 pounds; bigger condoms — hefty garbage bag size; bigger glitter — each piece is the same radius as a basketball; bigger beer bottles — each beer is actually a pony keg in glass.

How much longer does it take to get ready now that your costuming is so elaborate?
It took no time not to shower before. And it still takes no time not to shower now.

HANDOUT

LYKKE LI

WELCOME TO 'MY WORLD,' SAYS THE SWEDISH CHANTEUSE

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

There is something playful about the sorrow of Lykke Li.

In the song Sadness Is a Blessing, she delivers the phrase that gives her latest album its title of Wounded Rhymes, but in a ringing chorus she sings, "sadness is my boyfriend."

Elsewhere on the album she imbues a song like Unrequited Love with a pining innocence, like it's a song from the early '60s, and immediately follows it with the sexy drive of Get Some, where she's going out on the prowl, singing, "I'm your prostitute, you're gonna get some."

In conversation, the Swedish singer is serious about her art, but also willing to laugh at herself.

One thing that comes across on Wounded Rhymes is the importance of the sequence. The songs flow naturally. How much thought went in?
It is a lot of thought and work into that. I actually had to leave out songs because I couldn't fit them into my "world."

It's about balance. Just like cooking, you follow your instinct but at some point you've got to ease off the salt.

Your song, I Follow Rivers, appeared in a Glee episode. Did you ever think something so mainstream — and all about happiness — would celebrate a song from an album like Wounded Rhymes?
There is no business like show business, and sometimes even a melancholic person like me has to have a laugh and collect some stamps for the books.

Glee is so far away from me as a person and artist, so it was more about me seeing the humour in some huge American show singing my song about a really destructive love. With that said, I haven't actually ever watched the show and don't know much about it except that my gay friends love it.

Indie rock trio is 'more comfortable'

Arcade Fire. Broken Social Scene. In the past 10 years, Canadian bands, packed with 10-plus members, have been known for having more people onstage than people in the audience listening.

This isn't the case for the Rural Alberta Advantage.

In fact, the trio is even multi-tasking to create a sound like there are more players. Keyboardist Amy Cole recently bought a pedal bass to play with her feet to fill in the low end.

"It's been a little weird co-ordinating that with other instruments," says Cole. "We've been practicing it a lot actually, getting ready for tour."

Their recently released second album, Departing, has been garnering favourable reviews for its heartfelt immediacy.

There have been comparisons to Bright Eyes and Arcade Fire, but especially indie rock superheroes Neutral Milk Hotel, mostly due to singer Nils Edenloff's voice.

"I think Nils' vocal similarity cannot be denied," says Cole.

"Honestly, it's flattering to be in the same sentence as a band like that. At the same time, I hope we have our own identity."

The band does seem to have found themselves in Departing, garnering good reviews all around.

"I think because we were more confident in our sound," says Cole, "we were kind of able to make these songs in more of a voice that is a unified voice."

Cold War Kids start to thaw

Although the new single from the indie rock band Cold War Kids is called Louder Than Ever, their latest album is anything but that.

In fact, many of the highly melodic songs on Mine Is Yours are devoid of the angst that first propelled the band to popularity with the song Hang Me Up To Dry in 2007.

Singer Nathan Willett says he simply has less to be sad about these days.

"I mean, I've gotten married," he says.

They also spent some time in Long Beach, Calif., where the band formed.

"And this was kind of the first time we'd had a long stretch of being home, reconnecting with our friends and getting back to a normal state of living."

Willett also credits his focus on home with a shift in his lyric writing. Expect their live performance to be equally personal.

"You kind of get the real life story back in, which I felt really was missing on the second record," he says. "I got to spend a lot more time creating something more cohesive, and I feel like this is in some ways the first thing that we've done that just fits together." PAT HEALY

Peter Bjorn and John get negative

Band uses music as form of catharsis

The songs on Peter Bjorn and John's sixth album, Gimmie Some, are brimming with major chords, sassy beats and fun arrangements. (After all, these are the guys behind the infectious whistle of Young Folks.)

But the lyrics are full of bile and violence, although the result is occasionally funny.

"Yeah, there's a lot of bitchiness in it," agrees singer and guitarist Peter Moren. "We were joking about calling it 'Negative (expletive).'"

In the song Breaker Breaker, the trio take down a journalist who has dissed the band.

"Before you make a sound and try to turn us down/I'm gonna stuff your mouth with all your riddles," sings Moren, a lyric written by drummer John Eriksson.

"There was a word in the first couple of lines, 'I'm going to break your bike' and I thought that sounded too silly," recalls Moren. "So I suggested 'I'm going to break your arm,' instead, which was a bit heavier."

Some of the silliness remains, as Moren sings, "I'm gonna break your nose and sing about it." So did they break the journalist's nose?

"That's the thing," laughs Moren.

"When you write songs like this, and you get all of these negative thoughts and this anger out in this music, in the end it becomes something positive, and it's that catharsis, working through all those emotions and making pop music out of it, and then you just don't feel as bad.

"That's kind of the point I guess." PAT HEALY

With This Is Country Music, Brad Paisley aims to define the sound he loves

Brad Paisley began the journey to country music stardom by spending hours in a room with a guitar endlessly trying to figure out how to make the sounds on his favourite songs.

Thirty years later he was still doing just that when Alabama's Randy Owen showed up at the studio last year with his battered old Music Man guitar.

Paisley was using his telecaster to try and mimic that eerie, funky guitar sound Owen made on classics like Mountain Music that's almost as distinct as the band's rowdy harmonies.

"Are you trying to play Mountain Music there?" Owen asked Paisley.

Paisley, of course, denied it.

"Well, that ain't Mountain Music. This is," Owen said.

"So he started playing and we hit record," Paisley said with a smile.

Those were the opening notes of Old Alabama, Paisley's second No. 1 from his new album, This Is Country Music. It was a moment that encapsulated Paisley's bold concept for the album and his real appreciation for the genre's history and art.

When Owen handed the Music Man to Paisley for inspection that day, it was a little like the young gun trying the legend's six-shooter on for size — for a few minutes at least. And Paisley really appreciated the moment.

"It was really interesting to see the smile on Brad's face," Owen said. "He was like, 'That's the guitar.'"

That guitar is a piece of country music history, something Paisley seeks to put his own stamp on with his follow-up to American Saturday Night. He came up with the idea for the Country Music concept at the start of the album while he loaded up the title song with verse after verse — from cancer to Talladega — until it became overlong and unwieldy. Yet he felt like he could keep going forever.

"I just realized there's nothing off-limits as far as topics go in country music," Paisley said. "Nothing's too small in your life to write about. From a toothbrush to spiritual questions to difficulty, drinking, cheating — those are bigger things — sunbathing, you know what I mean? Nothing's off-limits. We say that very clearly in our music."

Rehab 'last chance' for Winehouse

Source says doctors urge troubled singer to stop drinking altogether
Friends, family concerned about severity of Winehouse's situation

Amy Winehouse's latest trip to rehab hasn't been fun, according to the Sun, as doctors at London's the Priory treatment facility have reportedly warned the troubled singer to quit drinking all together.

"It's the last chance saloon for Amy," a source says. "Doctors have come down hard on her because of the severity of her situation. It's a harsh reality but she had to hear it."

At least Winehouse has the support of her father, Mitch Winehouse, and boyfriend, Reg Traviss, according to the source.

"They are worried about her. Mitch has been down this road before during Amy's drug addiction. But she is there of her own accord this time and wants to sort herself out." METRO

His rep was quick to do damage control after the quote got out, explaining to Us Weekly: "He was referring to the fact that his contract is up at the end of next season and we have no idea what the future holds." Lively denies nude photos

Blake Lively is busy trying to quash her first nude photo scandal, as her rep insists pictures that recently leaked online are not of the Gossip Girl star.

"The photos of Blake Lively, which have just surfaced on various websites including Perez Hilton and Zap2it.com, are 100 per cent fake," her rep says in a statement. "Blake has never taken nude photos of herself. Blake will pursue legal action against the publication which initially published these photographs and any other outlets that republish them in any manner." METRO

Maria could profit in divorce

Divorce negotiations are reportedly "moving forward" between Arnold Schwarzenegger and Maria Shriver, as Schwarzenegger has hired his own heavyweight divorce attorney, Bob Kaufman, according to TMZ.

The pair have a prenuptial agreement from when they first married, but given the age of the agreement and Schwarzenegger's indiscretions that have recently come to light, Shriver may still walk away with half of their estimated $400 million, legal experts speculate. METRO

Halle Berry may be returning to her small-screen roots, as a television drama project with the Oscar-winner attached is reportedly being shopped around to HBO and Showtime by Dreamworks TV, according Deadline Hollywood. The series, called Higher Learning, would star Berry as a college professor and would be the actress' first time on the small screen since 2000's HBO movie Introducing Dorothy Dandrige, for which she won an Emmy and a Golden Globe. GO AHEAD, MAKE A SPLASH

▶ Sure those pear-versus apple and curvy-versus-curveless shape charts are important ▶ But what if you actually have to move in your suit?

The runway swimsuits and magazine-shoot bikinis, with their thin straps, triangle bottoms, decorative hardware and high ratio of white fabrics, make for great photos — especially on the glamazon models.

But some other women, perhaps those who trudge across the sand carrying a beach chair or who use swimming as a form of fitness, like two-piece suits, too.

Designer Nanette Lepore, a bikini wearer and lap swimmer, says she personally tests all the swimsuit styles in her collection. "I'm aiming for across-the-board fit. That means higher bottoms and built-up tops. My friends ask, 'How did most bottoms get so skimpy, anyway?'"

But just because you don't want a string bikini doesn't limit you to dowdy, Lepore says. "I think cute, retro styling keeps them sexy."

No one is accusing a Katy Perry-type or even a Dita Von Teese lookalike, with pinup looks that evoke old Hollywood swimsuit glamour in a flirty, high-waist skirt bottom, of being frumpy or boring, says Amy Tara Koch, a Chicago-based style expert.

"To me swimwear 101 is about the four Cs: compression, coverups, construction and quality. Ok that's a Q, but it makes a C sound."

AMY TARA KOCH, STYLE EXPERT

MARK NOLAN/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Sure this looks great on the runway, but will it truly cover up all your bits when you bust a move on the beach?

It's a win-win, she says, because it's a feminine look with little chance of a wardrobe malfunction.

"You need to think about how it looks and performance. ... There definitely is a middle of the road," Koch says.

Modern swimsuit manufacturers have innovative fabrics at their disposal that offer softness, control and colour that lasts even after many cycles in the sun, sand and pool, according to Koch. She also notes that many of the lingerie brands that specialize in shapewear, such as Spanx, now make swimsuits.

Koch, Lepore and Kay-Lin Richardson, director of sales at Panache Swimwear, all emphasize fit over any other factor in choosing a swimsuit, especially a two-piece. It's important in a one-piece, too, but there's usually more leeway, they say.

(They all also say white is a risky colour choice for anyone who gets wet — no matter the fabric or lining.)

How many women do you know who are different sizes on the bottom and top? asks Richardson. Probably most of them.

Panache makes its bathing suits based on bra sizes. "The idea is a properly fitted top — more of a custom fit," Richardson explains. "If you're chasing after kids, you don't have to feel self-conscious about a possible spill."

Swimwear tips from Kaylin Richardson, director of sales at Panache Swimwear

- When you're trying a swimsuit on in the dressing room, be sure to move around.
- An underwire top is going to give the support of a bra, where a triangle top won't. Thick tank straps are another possibility.
- For the truly active woman — think beach volleyball player or a boater — the tankini should be seriously considered

Wed-ify your hairdo

Kate Middleton's wedding hairstylist on that famous demi chignon, building block tiaras, and lily of the valley

ROMINA MCGUINNESS
METRO WORLD NEWS

Getting your hair to look its best on your wedding day is a small but crucial part of the overall look. You want a style that will look effortless and chic, and yet be sturdy enough to withstand, say, an unexpected gust of wind or your first dance without diverting the attention away from your dress. Yes, it's possible. Kate Middleton's hair guru, Richard Ward, explains.

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Say yes to Kate Middleton's demi chignon, but skip the tiara.

Try a demi chignon

"The up/down demi chignon really is the best of both worlds," Ward says. "Wear it all the way down and your hair will be all over your face. But wear it all the way up and you look too strict. (The demi chignon) is a timeless look that you can pull off at both the ceremony and the party."

Keep the curls lovely and loose

"No matter how well curls have been done they will eventually drop. For long lasting, lovely loose curls use big rollers set into wet hair. This will last as your hair dries into the shape," he explains. "The worst thing to do is use tight and heavy tongs or heating rollers as neither will last."

Choose your hair ornamentation wisely

"Tiaras are really popular at the moment," he says, stating the obvious. "I'd recommend keeping your hair away from your face if you're going to try to pull that look off. Kate's looked amazing but the problem is when people wear a tiara that' s more like a crown, it all ends up looking like a building block," he says. Flowers are a safer bet. "They're the ultimate hair accessory. Make a halo using lily of the valley buds. If you want to jazz this up at night just swap the flowers for some diamante studs, as seen on Pippa (Middleton)."

Start a mood board and practice, practice, practice

"Create a board with clippings that reflect the style you want to go for and show it to your hairdresser. All brides should practice their hairstyle until they are 100 per cent happy. You don't want any surprises on the day," Ward says.

Pick a good hair spray and let your mother have her say

"Keep your mother in the loop throughout as her feedback is priceless. On the day, allow for at least 90 minutes to get your hair done," he says. "An easy trap to fall into is to add on loads of hairspray to make sure that your hair stays in place but what you should be doing is lightly applying a fine spray. Assign a friend to help you freshen your hair on the night, whether its re-toning, blow drying or straightening."

Consider your age

"If you're over 35, pulling your hair completely away from the face can be very ageing. Also, too much volume on the side will stiffen your face. Copy Kate and allow your hair to gently sweep across your forehead. A great soft look that is also perfect for shorter hair is to have your hair down and slightly twisted and then tightened at sides."

Don't go overboard

"You'll want to feel special — it's your day, we get it — but your husband-to-be should recognize you as you walk down the aisle. A wedding is a respectful affair, avoid going overboard on anything."

Blue mussels go green

Farmed blue mussels are a sustainable seafood

NEWS CANADA

▶ These elegant spicy marinated mussels take a few simple steps to make.

Increasingly, Canadians are examining what they eat, where it comes from and how the environment is affected by the foods they choose.

When it comes to seafood, farmed blue mussels are one of the greenest choices.

Monterey Bay Aquarium's seafood watch program lists farmed mussels as a "super green" seafood product.

Seafood Watch bases its selections on a variety of factors, including the fishery, habitat, species, management and other factors that affect each species, as well as their Omega 3 content.

"Nearly 75 percent of the world's fisheries are fished to capacity, or overfished, but our seafood choices have the power to improve that situation," says Linda Duncan, executive director of the Mussel Industry Council of North America.

"Each year we see more interest in sustainable blue mussels, grown naturally in their own environment," explains Duncan. "They're harvested by hand in Atlantic Canada and shipped to your (city)."

Mussels grow in abundance. Each female releases as many as 20 million eggs, which float in the ocean waves, get fertilized and then latch onto mussel farmers' collector ropes, where they continue to grow to maturity as they would naturally.

Spicy Marinated Mussels

Preparation:

1. Stir fresh blue mussels in colander while rinsing in tap water. Set aside for a few minutes. Tap any that are open and discard those that don't close in response to the tap.
2. Place all ingredients (not the marinade ingredients) in sauce pan with a lid and steam for 5 to 7 minutes until fresh blue mussels are steamed open.
3. Remove mussels, discarding any that do not open.
4. When cool, shuck mussels and place meats in a large serving dish. Combine marinade ingredients in air–tight container and shake to blend. Pour over fresh blue mussels. Refrigerate until ready to use.

NEWS CANADA

Decorate like a millionaire

Creating a classic-looking room without breaking the bank. A little time and creativity is all it takes

DESIGN CENTRE

KARL LOHNES
HOME@METRONEWS.CA

Although trends can be fun to learn about; and even implement into our decor; always keeping up with them can be exhausting and expensive.

There are certain decor choices that never seem to go out of style. From a splash of animal print, to classic wood tones and fabric choices, anyone can achieve the look of a millionaire's home without having to break the bank.

Here's a list of affordable classic decor choices that will never go out of style.

Floors

Look for silk-like rugs made of viscose at places like Walmart and Home Depot. Choose tone-on-tone, simply designed rugs as they tend to have a more classic look and will last longer.

Tiles are great for updating a kitchen, bath or foyer area. Choose classic slate or marble-look porcelain tiles; it's hard to tell the porcelain versions over the real thing and they are much less expensive than the real thing.

Want the look of old-world floors? Consider laminate floors that are reminiscent of herringbone oak floors in Paris.

Laminate is also durable, easy to install and is considered a "floating" floor that makes it an excellent candidate to for floors in condos.

Drapes

Faux silk drapery panels are aplenty at the big-box retailer stores. If choosing pre-made drapery panels then splurge and buy the next size up as the more the fabric hangs the more luxurious the windows will look. Got drapes already?

Beef them up to look more lush by adding an inexpensive material (like polar fleece) sewn as an additional lining; your drapery panels will instantly look fuller.

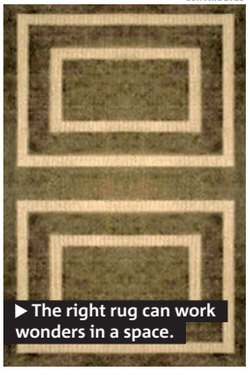
Upholstered furniture

Plain neutral coloured fabrics like cotton twill, chenille or synthetic linen do not have to cost a lot, yet when teamed up with a simple colour like cream, taupe or grey they can look classic for a long time. Add dashes of a trendier colour with pillows, glass vases and candles.

Wood furniture

When investing in wooden furniture pieces for your space consider choosing a medium-dark walnut or mahogany stain finish. These are the two classics that will never be out of style.

CONTRIBUTED



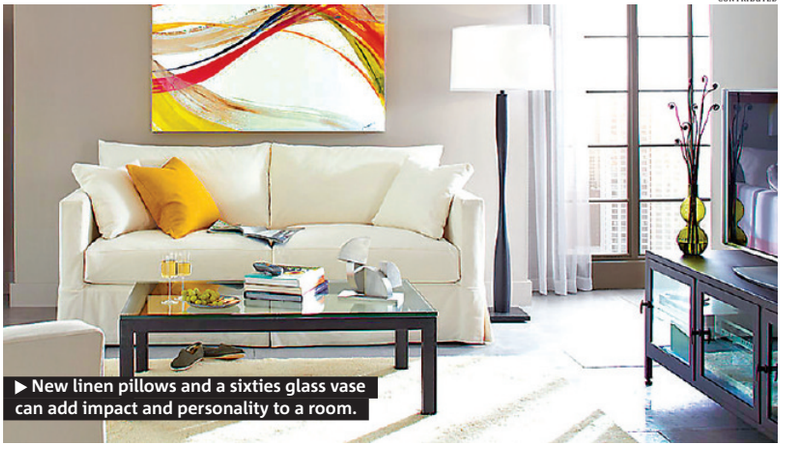
▶ The right rug can work wonders in a space.

Got an old dresser from grandma's attic? Have it refinished with a dark mahogany stain, add bright chrome pulls and top it with a piece of honed marble. Be weary of trendy wood tones such as espresso or driftwood colours; they will date themselves with a few years and are often not of good enough quality to update with a future stain finish.

CONTRIBUTED

▶ Consider choosing a classic medium-dark walnut or mahogany stain finish for wooden furniture.

CONTRIBUTED



▶ New linen pillows and a sixties glass vase can add impact and personality to a room.

Accessories

I believe that every accessory you bring into your space should have a story (or at least look that way). Choosing unique looking items will add character and personality to a space.

Places like Homesense are great for interesting world-designed items like decorative wooden and shell-covered boxes, glass art objects and large coffee table books.

Yard sales and flea markets are another great place to look for inexpensive treasures. In order not to make your place look like a flea market itself, choose accessories in colour ways to keep a common denominator in the space. For instance a turquoise 1940s lamp or sixties glass vase can add impact to a room.

Designer classics

These are items that designers and style-makers scoop up at the flea markets and decor stores.

- Skin rugs: For less that a few hundred dollars you can have a cow skin rug which has been a designer classic for years.
- Needlepoint pillows: These look amazing on a sofa or at the top of bed.
- Rose bowl vases: These are great in many sizes, and can hold flowers, fruit or candles.
- Black and white photos: Framed with a simple black wood moulding and white matting, these can look timeless leaning against a fireplace mantle or hung in a hallway.

Every second counts

With clock running down on a scoreless Game 1, Torres beats Thomas to seal victory

Raffi Torres scored with 18.5 seconds left in the third period to give the Vancouver Canucks a 1-0 victory over the Boston Bruins last night in Game 1 of the Stanley Cup final.

Torres took a pass from Jannik Hansen and beat Bruins goaltender Tim Thomas on the stick side. His third goal of the playoffs brought a tremendous roar from the 18,860 in attendance at Rogers Arena.

Canuck goaltender Roberto Luongo made 36 saves and opened a series with a shutout for the third time these playoffs.

"I thought we were going to play all night the way it was going," Luongo said. "It was an exciting way to start the series. It was such a close game. It could've gone either way, a flip of the coin."

Thomas had looked like a spinning top in the third period.

In the first minute, Alex Burrows deflected a puck that Thomas stopped. Thomas stoned Hansen on a breakaway, then calmly put his glove on the puck as it lay in front of the net. Later, he got his body in front of a Maxim Lapierre deflection.

"You've got two of the best goaltenders in the league," Canucks head coach Alain Vigneault said. "Obviously scoring is going to be a challenge for both teams."

Thomas also got lucky when an Alex Edler wrist shot from the slot got behind him but hit the crossbar.

"He played unbelievable. You can't say much more about Tim," Bruins defenceman Johnny Boychuk said. "We need him to play like that."

Thomas ended the night with 33 saves.

Luongo's best save came in the first period when he stopped Boston forward Milan Lucic on a rebound.

Anticipation for the game had reached a boiling point in Vancouver by the time the puck finally dropped. The same excitement rippled through the city that was felt prior to the gold-medal hockey game at the 2010 Winter Olympics.

Game 2 of the best-of-seven series will be played Saturday at Rogers Arena. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sharapova back in the semis

CLIVE BRUNSKILL/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Maria Sharapova hits a forehand yesterday.

Everything came so quickly for Maria Sharapova at the start of her tennis career. Wimbledon champion at age 17. Ranked No. 1 at 18. Second major title at 19, third at 20.

Surgery on her right shoulder in October 2008 put a halt to all of that. Getting her game back in order required patience. And with a 6-0, 6-3 victory over 15th-seeded Andrea Petkovic of Germany yesterday, Sharapova reached the French Open semifinals, the first time she's made it that far at any Grand Slam tournament in more than three years.

"There's no doubt there's tough moments. I don't think without tough moments the good ones would feel so good," the seventh-seeded Sharapova said. "I have certainly put in a lot of work, and I was never hesitant. I always tried to push myself as much as I could."

The owner of titles from the other three major tournaments, a championship at Roland Garros would make Sharapova the 10th woman to complete a career Grand Slam.

In the semifinals today, she'll face No. 6 Li Na of China, who advanced by beating No. 4 Victoria Azarenka of Belarus 7-5, 6-2. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TARA WALTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ The rebuilding Raptors have decided to start anew at the head coach position by moving Jay Triano into the team's front office.

Raps shuffle Triano out of coach's role

First ever Canadian NBA coach will now serve as assistant to Colangelo

The Toronto Raptors are making a head coaching change after finishing with the third-worst record in the NBA this past season.

The team will not pick up the option on Jay Triano's contract for next season. Instead, he will be retained as a special assistant to president and general manager Bryan Colangelo.

The search for a new head coach will commence immediately.

"I have great respect for Jay Triano both as a person and as a basketball mind," Colangelo said in a release yesterday. "Jay deserves tremendous credit for developing our young players this past season and our most recent win-loss record does not appropriately reflect his many positive contributions to this organization."

Triano served as an assistant to three coaches before being named interim head coach in December 2008 following the dismissal of Sam Mitchell. The interim tag was later removed and Triano signed a three-year deal in May 2009.

He guided the Raptors to a 22-60 mark this past season and finished with an 87-142 record as head coach.

"This was a difficult decision to make," Colangelo said. "But after almost three full seasons of observation and evaluation I believe that bringing in a new voice as head coach will accelerate the progress we are looking to make in the coming years."

Triano, a native of Niagara Falls, Ont., joined Lenny Wilkens' Raptors coaching staff for the 2002-03 season.

"I am grateful to the organization for the opportunity to be a head coach in the NBA," Triano said. "I am proud of the work that I and the coaching staff have done with our young players and feel confident we have laid the foundation for a team that will continue to improve.

"I look forward in assisting Bryan to deliver a championship team to Toronto."

The announcement came two weeks after Colangelo agreed to a multi-year contract extension.

Talent void

Jay Triano became the victim of the Raptors' talent deficiency after Chris Bosh left last summer to join the Miami Heat.

- Andrea Bargnani has yet to step into the void left by Bosh on the young squad.
- Triano spent six years as head coach of Canada's national team, leading Canada to a seventh-place finish at the 2000 Olympics.

FRONT OFFICE

NHL to take 'fresh look' at discipline

A new man will be handing out the discipline in the NHL.

Colin Campbell is stepping down as the league's head disciplinarian and is being replaced by former player Brendan Shanahan.

NHL commissioner Gary Bettman made the announcement yesterday, saying the move was part of a reorganization of the league's head office.

"Both Colin and I believe it's time to take a fresh look at the standards that we use," Bettman said prior to Game 1 of the Stanley Cup final.

"If we are going to move to harsher discipline, that change needs to send a clear message and we think it would probably be best to do on a clean slate."

There had been some criticism that there were inconsistencies in the suspensions Campbell had handed out this season, especially in the area of head shots.

Bettman praised Campbell's efforts and said it was not a demotion.

"It would be unfair, inappropriate and simply wrong to suggest this reorgnaizaiton in any way is a diminution of Colin or his role," said Bettman.

Campbell will continue in his job of director of hockey operations.

"I approached Gary back in March about supplemental discipline, and it was time to have a fresh look and fresh eyes at the process of discipline," said Campbell, who had held the job since 1998.

Shanahan, who won three Stanley Cups with the Detroit Red Wings, said his taking over the job won't necessarily result in longer suspensions.

"I can't promise you how I will view each individual situation," Shanahan said. "I do love the physical aspect of hockey and it is a very difficult and fine balance to keep that in the game to allow players to play on their toes, but at the same time know what they can and cannot do.

"I will promise you when I do make those decisions, I will try and make my thought process, and everything that went into that thought process, very clear and very visible to the entire hockey world."

Mavs laugh off Dirk's finger injury

Brian Cardinal took one look at Dirk Nowitzki's injured finger, turned to the Dallas Mavericks' trainer and recommended his treatment plan.

"Cut it at the knuckle," the Mavericks backup joked, making a scissors motion with his right hand. "Like Ronnie Lott."

Nowitzki's injury was more source of fun than concern yesterday, starting from the moment he woke up. He expected the torn tendon at the tip of his left middle finger to be sore and throbbing and it wasn't.

Nowitzki figures it will be mostly a nuisance for the next month or two. He and his shooting coach worked to see how he can compensate, starting with Game 2 of the NBA final against the Miami Heat tonight.

Nowitzki was hurt trying to strip the ball from Chris Bosh in the fourth quarter of Tuesday's 92-84 Game 1 loss. The injury generally takes six to eight weeks to heal. Because the problem is on Nowitzki's non-shooting hand, most of what he does offensively will not be affected.

"I think once the game starts, the adrenalin starts flowing, I don't think it will really slow me down much," Nowitzki said. "I'm not really worried about it."

Maybe he should be.

Because Miami knows where he's hurting, and everyone knows how much Nowitzki means to Dallas, it only makes sense that guys are going to swipe at his hands more than ever.

"Somebody's going to swat down on it, whether they want to or not," Bosh said. "It's painful. As ballplayers, we all go through it."

Thanks for agreeing to a coffee with me. You won't regret it! PATRICK

*Hey Duckie, just wanted to say that I'm so glad we met. You're the bestest friend anyone could ever have! The last 3 years have been great! I can't wait to see what crazy shenanigans we'll get up in the years to come. XD *quack quack PANDA

Mr Stevens,
If it weren't for you, I don't know where I'd be right now. At the moment words can't describe how thankful I am for meeting someone very special like you. Everyone will agree when I say that you are irreplaceable and I'm awfully glad that I met you. Thank you so much, for everything!!! VERY THANKFUL TO YOU

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and horoscopes: metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Not everyone can live up to your high standards, so make allowances for those who fall short today.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 If you let your mind wander today, you will waste time on issues that are petty and unproductive.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 You will soon see how much energy you've wasted on things that don't take you closer to your goals.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 You may be a bit subdued today, but there is no cause for alarm.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 You may have to listen to the opinions of someone you detest today.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 If you think your talents are being overlooked, it's time to speak up. You can make a big impression.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Look at the big picture and details of what happened over the past two or three days. You'll like what you see.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Do you tell others what they want to hear? Speak the truth and don't worry that your words might hurt.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 If you've fallen out with a loved one, you will get the chance make up today. Show how you'll change.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You will find it easy enough to persuade others to lighten your load today, so why do it all by yourself?

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Your time is precious and you must not let other people waste it.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Don't just accept what someone says because of his or her superior status. SALLY BROMPTON
